The main purpose of EEAT is to serve as environmental engineering professional center, providing educational and technical informations and technologies on environmental pollution protection and control as well as environmental management. As the environmental subjects have been national and world wide concern, EEAT will be the platform for knowledge management of environmental concerns by organizing the annual International Conference on Environmental Engineering, Science, and Management. The objective of the conference is to share and exchange knowledge among researchers, scientists, engineers and other practitioners by presenting research work and practical case studies in the conference. This can be benefit for not only solving the national and local environmental problems, but also strengthening the network of environmental institutes, organizations, and other related ones. Moreover, this 2017 conference is a special event that EEAT is going to organize international conference in conjunction with national conference.
